Charge police aide in attack on girl

Troy Sanders, head of the Gary Police Community Relations office in Miller, today was charged with a sexual assault on an East Gary girl along with a number of other charges involving a gun and a theft.

Sanders was charged by Detective Steve Glusac, who works with Sanders at the police community relations office at 288 S. Lake St., on a complaint from an 18-year-old East Gary girl.

Glusac said in a report filed Monday that the assault on the girl occurred last Wednesday in the office when she went in for information. Sanders isn't a policeman nor is he paid by the police department.

Glusac signed arrest warrants today charging Sanders with assault with intent to satisfy sexual gratification, carrying a gun without a permit, impersonating a police officer, theft by deception and carrying a concealed weapon.

Glusac's report said Sanders took the girl into a back room and attacked her.

The theft charge stems from money collected in the Miller area for summer softball uniforms which Sanders received but didn't spend for the uniforms, Glusac said.

He said Sanders has been identifying himself as a police lieutenant and carrying a pistol without a permit.

Sanders, of 5324 Duneland Terrace, was suspended Monday by city officials.

The charges were filed by Glusac in Gary City Court.
